

Matrix and AquaResource Merger

Combines leading-edge water resource management, environmental and engineering services.

The AquaResource Advantage

AquaResource Inc. is an Ontario-based company committed to water resource assessment and management. The company provides services to the private and public sector, including: source water protection; contaminant fate and migration assessments; environmental impact assessments and environmental data management.

What makes AquaResource unique is the approach to projects that integrates data management, interpretation and modelling tools. The company views groundwater and surface water as part of a single flow system, providing a unique viewpoint for complex water assessment and management problems. They offer teams of specialists to tackle the following types of applications:

- Assessment of groundwater and surface water interactions with advanced modelling tools
- Characterization of hydrogeologic systems integrating geology with physical and chemical hydrogeology
- Assessment of water budgets and risks to water supply sustainability
- Advanced numerical modelling methods, including optimization, density-dependent flow and transport and conjunctive use
- Hydrologic assessment of climate change impacts
- Implementation of environmental data management systems

The staff of 25 professionals, including licensed professional engineers, professional geoscientists, water resources specialists and information management specialists is committed to providing exceptional service through innovative solutions that are solidly founded in science and engineering principles.
